Tick Identification

Within the Mosquito Control Division, the Tick-borne Diseases Program offers a tick identification service to county residents. Our tick specialist will provide a report indicating the type of tick, its life stage, gender, level of engorgement, and a brief description of disease that the species of tick may carry. The Tick-borne Diseases Program does not test ticks submitted by the public for any disease. A submitter has the option to pick up the tick and send it to a commercial laboratory for testing.

Division entomologists are also available to identify other insects for county residents. As with ticks, the specimen must be delivered to our Tinton Falls office.

The Division has a number of educational brochures regarding ticks and mosquitoes and welcomes the opportunity to participate in community events to educate the public.

Mosquito Control Requests for Service

The Monmouth County Mosquito Control Division offers complimentary inspections of properties for standing water supporting mosquito larvae. If larvae are found, the inspector will either treat the water or, in the case of a container such as a bucket, dump the water. A typical inspection will survey your property and adjacent properties provided that permission to enter is granted by the owner or resident. This service is open to all county residents. Requests can be submitted by calling 732-542-3630 or online at www.visitmonmouth.com/mosquito.

Please note that the Division does not conduct treatment to kill flying adult mosquitoes on individual properties; the Division will conduct spraying in a neighborhood if there is evidence of a mosquito-borne disease like West Nile virus or Eastern Equine Encephalitis circulating in the area.
